

EDUCATION COMMISSION OF THE STATES

EDUCATION COMMISSION OF THE STATES ANNUAL REPORT

2016

Education Commission of the States serves as a partner to state policymakers by providing personalized support, unbiased information and opportunities for collaboration. Through our programs and services, policymakers gain the insight and experience needed to create more effective education policy.

EDUCATION COMMISSION OF THE STATES IS THE ESSENTIAL, INDISPENSABLE MEMBER OF ANY TEAM ADDRESSING EDUCATION POLICY.

At Education Commission of the States, we believe in the power of learning from experience. Every day, we provide education leaders with unbiased information and opportunities for collaboration. We do this because we know that informed policymakers create better education policy.

RESEARCH

We compile information on education policies from early childhood through postsecondary education and workforce so state policymakers can make informed decisions.

RESEARCH

We compile information on education policies from early childhood through postsecondary education and workforce so state policymakers can make informed decisions.

Our STATE LEGISLATION database features nearly 45,000 education laws from 1994 to present, searchable by state, topic, past month or year. This signature Education Commission of the States product, updated weekly, contains research on more than 300 topics in categories such as accountability, assessments, standards/curriculum, financial aid and much more. It allows users to read bill summaries, find bill links and view trends in state policy enactments.

Nearly 1,600 entries were added to the state legislation database.

Our issue-specific 50-STATE COMPARISONS allow policymakers to compare their state laws against other states on topics like kindergarten, funding, dual/concurrent enrollment and many others.

We compiled new 50-State Comparisons for three key policy areas and updated three existing 50-State Comparisons:

- Advanced Placement Policies.
- K-3 Quality.
- Statewide Longitudinal Data Systems.
- Dual/Concurrent Enrollment Policies (update).
- Transfer and Articulation Policies (update).
- Civic Education Policies (update).

Education Commission of the States maintains an online database with summaries of education-related proposals from GOVERNORS' STATE OF THE STATE ADDRESSES.

The database was updated with information from the 2016 State of the State addresses and the content is viewable online by state, issue and year from 2011 to present.

Education Commission of the States assists state education leaders with PERSONALIZED RESEARCH, typically within 24 hours, when states need timely, trusted information to inform policy decisions.

Our policy staff completed 587 personalized state information requests. These information requests are one of the most unique and valued ways the staff of Education Commission of the States serves the people behind the policy.

A sampling of the messages that Education Commission of the States received from constituents in 2016

Thank you so much for the clear and thorough picture of recent policy shifts related to exit exams as a requirement for graduation.

STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION OFFICIAL

Wow, I can't thank you enough for all this amazing information. I will definitely sort through this all and let you know if any more questions pop up. I truly appreciate your fast and detailed response!

STATE HIGHER EDUCATION OFFICIAL

This is perfect and very helpful. I'm impressed with your and ECS' ability to produce timely, relevant and well-presented information about state education policymaking. I'll recommend to my colleagues that they contact ECS for this type of information.

LEGISLATIVE STAFF

REPORT

We regularly issue relevant and timely reports providing education leaders with concise, factual overviews on the full spectrum of state education policies.

REPORT

We regularly issue useful compilations, summaries and/or comparisons of state policies—enacted or pending—on a wide variety of education topics. These reports provide education leaders with concise, factual overviews of specific state policies and are available to download from our website.

We released more than 52 REPORTS on key policy issues ranging from preschool through postsecondary education. Knowing that every state has unique and important challenges, our policy experts look at four main categories when constructing reports:

- Financing: We understand that identifying and appropriating funding for programs from pre-kindergarten to postsecondary is critical to high-quality education, that's why we address a broad range of funding issues, including preschool funding, K-12 funding, financial aid and performance-based funding.
- Teaching and Leading: Every student's success depends on having access to quality educators, which is why we work on the topics of governance, educator preparation and licensure, quality instruction and leadership, and educator evaluation.
- Learning and Transitioning: For students to advance from one educational level to the next, they must master rigorous content under the guidance and purposeful coordination of educators. For this reason, we cover issues including third-grade reading proficiency, academic standards, high school graduation requirements, and degree and certification completion.
- Measuring and Improving: Education systems can be continuously improved when states consistently review and hold them accountable for preparing students to succeed. To aid this process, we address topics such as assessments, educator evaluations, student privacy and pre-kindergarten through postsecondary data systems.

Technical Assistance: 17 States

Presentations: 19 States and D.C.

CONVENE

We bring education leaders together within their states and across states to interact, collaborate and learn from each other.

CONVENE

We bring education leaders together within their states and across states to learn from one another. Through our two annual national gatherings, regional meetings and issue-specific or role-specific meetings, we create opportunities for policymakers and their staff to interact and collaborate.

NATIONAL FORUM ON EDUCATION POLICY

The 2016 National Forum on Education Policy, held in Washington, D.C., convened pivotal education leaders – governors, legislators, state commissioners, higher education leaders, teachers, business leaders – all focused on transforming policy and advancing student success. The three-day event also brought some of the nation's top education speakers and included sessions on topics ranging from preschool through postsecondary education and workforce readiness.

The 2016 National Forum on Education Policy convened 572 registrants, including 32 Steering Committee Members and 63 Commissioners.

“Being a newly-appointed Commissioner, the ECS staff couldn't have been more generous in letting us know how they can help.”

“This was my first time at the forum and I really appreciated the different stakeholder groups that were represented both in the general attendees and as speakers.”

WINTER COMMISSIONERS MEETING

Education Commission of the States holds the Winter Commissioners Meeting annually. This convening presents an opportunity for Education Commission of the States staff and Commissioners to build relationships, engage in rich discussions and prepare for the year ahead.

In 2016, 141 registrants, including 27 Steering Committee Members and 35 Commissioners, attended the Winter Commissioners Meeting in Denver.

“I want to congratulate you on an amazing conference! I know that a conference of that quality does not happen without dedicated leaders working night and day to make it happen!!! It truly was outstanding in every way!”

2016 THINKERS MEETINGS

K-3 Thinkers Meeting

In July 2016, Education Commission of the States and its national partners convened a group of the nation's top experts on K-3 education for a Thinkers Meeting to reflect on research and practice and then define state policy levers with the greatest potential to impact student outcomes. Education Commission of the States released the resulting special report, K-3 Policymakers' Guide to Action: Making the early years count, in November 2016 which summarizes the top policy components the experts prioritized as essential to building a high-quality, state K-3 system.

ESSA Thinkers Meeting

In December 2016, Education Commission of the States convened 12 policy experts and representatives from state education agencies, legislatures, governors' offices and state boards of education to discuss key policy issues in the Every Student Succeeds Act (ESSA) – the 2015 reauthorization of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act – and how states can use changes in federal law to achieve their education goals. The conversation that emerged transcended content areas, such as assessments and accountability, and instead focused on the approach states should take to their ESSA work. The participants emphasized the importance of developing a unified state vision, bringing all the right players to the table and fostering a state's capacity to achieve its education goals. Importantly, they stressed that improvement is an ongoing process and that the conversations started now should continue for years to come. Education Commission of the States released the resulting report, ESSA Thinkers Meeting Insights: Process is key to developing state plans, in January 2017.

2016 RESEARCH AND REPORTS

Believing that informed policymakers create better education policy, Education Commission of the States provides state leaders with unbiased policy research and reporting, targeted technical support and the opportunity to learn from peers in other states.

We regularly release insightful reports covering education policy trends, comparing policy approaches across the states and highlighting promising practices. We also maintain databases that allow policymakers to quickly research policies in other states and compare their state laws against other states.

A summary of our 2016 research and reports sorted by four key education policy issue areas: financing; teaching and leading; learning and transitioning; and measuring and improving follows.

Financing

We understand that identifying and appropriating funding for programs from pre-kindergarten to postsecondary plays a critical role in high-quality education, that's why we address a broad range of funding issues, including preschool funding, K-12 funding, financial aid and performance-based funding.

State Pre-K Funding for 2015-16 Fiscal Year: National trends in state preschool funding

This 50-State Review highlights an increase in early learning programs for the fourth-straight year. The report includes several state examples and an overview of the pre-K programs they have in place.

State Teacher Salary Schedules

This Policy Analysis provides information on teacher statewide salary schedules in 17 states and addresses several policy questions, including how they work and why states institute them.

Constitutional Obligations for Public Education

This 50-State Review provides an informative overview of the constitutional language for each state and how the individual constitutions address public schools.

The Importance of At-Risk Funding

This report analyzes how states fund at-risk students and how much additional money at-risk students receive from states.

State Financial Aid: Applying redesign principles through state engagement

This report shares lessons learned from Education Commission of the States' technical assistance work with several states on redesigning state financial aid to craft more strategic approaches to financial aid policy design and implementation. This is an aspect of the ongoing state financial aid redesign work supported by USA Funds.

Education Savings Accounts: Key provisions and state variations

This Education Trends report explores the key components of Education Savings Accounts (ESAs) and examines ESA law and programs in several states.

Full-Day Kindergarten: A look across the states

This 50-State Review explores the different methods that states use to fund both full-day and half-day kindergarten and examines the spectrum of full-day kindergarten program requirements across the country.

Strengthening Policies for Foster Youth Postsecondary Attainment

This policy report provides an overview of the challenges foster youth confront when pursuing a postsecondary credential, focuses on the treatment of these youth by state financial aid programs, and offers potential remedies that state policy leaders may pursue to increase successful outcomes for this population.

Free Community College: An approach to increase adult student success in postsecondary education

This policy report discusses the growing interest in free community college policies across state legislatures, addresses the limited potential of current policies to help states reach their completion and attainment goals and offers a new, inclusive framework for including adult students in free community college policies.

Teaching and Leading

Every student's success depends on having access to quality educators, which is why we work on the topics of governance, educator preparation and licensure, quality instruction and leadership, and educator evaluation.

2016 State of the State Addresses: Governors' top education issues

This Education Trends report highlights the education-related portions of State of the State addresses given by 41 governors as of March 2016. School finance, teaching quality and postsecondary affordability emerged as key areas of focus.

Teacher Shortages: What We Know

This brief is the first in a series of reports examining the teacher shortage dilemma. Designed to guide state leaders in policy decisions, this policy brief begins the series by considering what the research says about teacher shortages and highlights state task force findings.

Mitigating Teacher Shortages: Alternative Teacher Certification

This report is one of five policy briefs examining strategies states are using to address shortages: alternative certification. Providing alternative routes to teacher certification is an approach to recruit and retain teachers. A definition of alternative teacher certification is provided, followed by a summary of the research on this strategy, state policy examples and considerations for policymakers.

Mitigating Teacher Shortages: Financial Incentives

This report is one of five policy briefs examining strategies states are using to address shortages: financial incentives. Providing financial incentives can be an effective strategy for recruiting and retaining teachers. Definitions of three financial incentive programs are provided, followed by a summary of supporting research on this strategy, state policy examples and considerations for policymakers.

Mitigating Teacher Shortages: Induction and Mentorship Programs

This report is one of five policy briefs examining strategies states are using to address shortages: induction and mentorship. Providing new teachers with induction and mentoring can be an effective retention strategy. A definition of induction and mentorship programs is provided, followed by a summary of the research on this strategy, state policy examples and considerations for policymakers.

Mitigating Teacher Shortages: Evaluation and Feedback

This report is one of five policy briefs examining strategies states are using to address shortages: evaluation and feedback. Providing teachers with ongoing feedback and targeted professional development following evaluations can be an effective retention strategy. A definition of the evaluation feedback loop is provided, followed by a summary of supporting research on this strategy, state policy examples and considerations for policymakers.

Mitigating Teacher Shortages: Teacher Leadership

This report is one of five policy briefs examining strategies states are using to address teacher shortages: teacher leadership. Providing teacher leadership opportunities to highly effective teachers can be an effective strategy for retaining them in the classroom. A definition of teacher leadership is provided, followed by a summary of supporting research on this strategy, state policy examples and considerations for policymakers.

ESSA: Quick guides on top issues

This report provides insight into key areas of the Every Student Succeeds Act (ESSA) that have prompted questions and concerns from education leaders and policymakers as they prepare to implement this new law.

The Civics Education Initiative 2015-2016

This Education Trends report explores the Civics Education Initiative and provides an update on 2015-2016 legislation.

ESSA: Mapping opportunities for the arts

This special report highlights the ways that states and districts can engage the arts in the ongoing work of the Every Student Succeeds Act (ESSA).

Learning and Transitioning

For students to advance from one educational level to the next, they must master rigorous content under guidance and purposeful coordination of educators. For this reason, we cover issues including third-grade reading proficiency, academic standards, high school graduation requirements, and degree and certification completion. Guidebook: Six proven practices for effective civic learning

This report reviews the "Six Proven Practices for Effective Civic Learning" and serves as a resource for education leaders who want to put the practices in place.

Broadband Access and Implications for Efforts to Address Equity Gaps in Postsecondary Attainment

This Education Trends report focuses on two related but distinct challenges confronting state policy leaders and students as they seek to leverage online distance education to meet personal and statewide education goals, namely access to infrastructure and ensuring availability of financial resources.

Advanced Placement: Model policy components

This Policy Analysis reviews key components of a comprehensive state AP policy and model state policies that align with each component.

ESSA's Well-Rounded Education

This report reviews the components of ESSA's prevalent well-rounded education concept and potential ways that states can support educational access for every student under this new law.

Companion Report: 50-State Comparison: K-3 Quality

This Companion Report provides highlights from the accompanying 50-State Comparison that outlines key state-level policies implemented across the country that impact K-3 quality.

Computer Science in High School Graduation Requirements: 2016 Update

This Education Trends report is an update to the original report released in April 2015 and explores state policies that allow or require districts to apply computer science coursework toward completion of high school graduation requirements in math, science or foreign language.

Early College High Schools: Model policy components

This Policy Analysis defines early college high schools, clarifies how they differ from traditional dual enrollment programs, provides an overview of the structure and impact of early college high schools and outlines key model policy components to enhance high school and postsecondary outcomes for traditionally underrepresented students.

State and Federal Policy: Gifted and talented youth

This Policy Analysis provides descriptive information about gifted and talented youth populations, explores their educational challenges, reviews currently enacted state and federal policies designed to address their needs, and provides policy considerations for state governments.

State and Federal Policy: Homeless youth

This Policy Analysis provides descriptive information about homeless youth populations, explores their educational challenges, reviews currently enacted state and federal policies designed to address their needs, and provides policy considerations for schools and districts.

State and Federal Policy: Incarcerated youth

This Policy Analysis provides descriptive information about incarcerated youth populations, explores their educational challenges, reviews currently enacted state and federal policies designed to address their needs, and provides policy considerations for state governments.

State and Federal Policy: Military youth

This Policy Analysis provides descriptive information about military youth populations, explores their educational challenges, reviews currently enacted state and federal policies designed to address their needs, and provides policy considerations for state governments.

State and Federal Policy: Native American youth

This Policy Analysis provides descriptive information about Native American youth populations, explores their educational challenges, reviews currently enacted state and federal policies designed to address their needs, and provides policy considerations for state governments.

Measuring and Improving

Education systems can be continuously improved when states consistently review and hold them accountable for preparing students to succeed. To aid this process, we address topics such as assessments, educator evaluations, student privacy and pre-kindergarten through postsecondary data systems.

State Civic Education Policy: Gap analysis tool for education leaders and policymakers

This Gap Analysis Tool is a flexible resource for use by states, school districts, higher education institutions and community groups to examine policies anywhere along the preschool to postsecondary spectrum.

Guns on Campus: The architecture and momentum of state policy action

This special report offers a detailed summary of state legislative action and higher education system policy decisions that have occurred in two specific categories: (1) states that have permitted or are seeking to permit guns on campus, and (2) states that have prohibited or are seeking to prohibit guns on campus.

Every Student Succeeds Act (ESSA) Resources

To assist state education leaders and policymakers, Education Commission of the States compiled resources related to the Every Student Succeeds Act (ESSA). While not an exhaustive list, these resources will help states as they work to understand and implement the changes associated with the passage of ESSA.

2016 State of the States: Arts education state policy summary

A review released by the Arts Education Partnership (AEP), a policy center within Education Commission of the States, offers a comprehensive look at state policies for arts education identified in statute or administrative code for all 50 states and the District of Columbia.

State Policy Leadership for the Future: History of state coordination and governance and alternatives for the future

This report from Education Commission of the States and the National Center for Higher Education Management Systems highlights how states have revisited their governance arrangements in response to changing conditions and expectations.

Collaborative Stakeholder Engagement

This report offers a framework for going beyond simply engaging stakeholders for input when creating a state plan for ESSA to collaborate with them to create shared goals and improved results.

Faculty Qualification Policies and Strategies Relevant to Dual Enrollment Programs: An Analysis of States and Regional Accreditation Agencies

This report, released by the Midwestern Higher Education Compact and co-authored by Education Commission of the States, reviews how states across the country address the quality of dual enrollment courses through policies regarding teacher qualifications.

Inhibiting Connection: State policy impacting expansion of municipal broadband networks

This Education Trends report explores the debate around municipal broadband expansion and examines state policies across the country that impact municipal broadband networks.

A State Policymaker's STEM Playbook

This Promising Practices in Education report highlights the Utah STEM Action Center as a case study of legislation that includes three essential elements of a successful STEM program: statewide coordination, adequate funding and evaluation. This report also identifies elements that contributed to the passage and implementation of this STEM legislation.

K-3 Policymakers' Guide to Action: Making the early years count

This special report summarizes the top policy components 12 of the nation's top content experts convened by Education Commission of the States prioritized for a high-quality K-3 system.

Companion Report: 50-State Comparison: Civic Education

This Companion Report provides highlights from the accompanying 50-State Comparison that outlines key legislation and specific school curriculums related to civic education.

Wiping the Slate Clean: A new federalism for the 21st century student

This brief outlines the current structure of federal and state higher education policies and funding that emerged consequently. Also included is a review of policy and practice changes that address meeting college attainment goals and ensuring affordability for low and middle income students.

Leveraging Community Colleges in the Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act: A blueprint for state policymakers

This brief looks at how to increase coordination between institutions and regional workforce needs, specifically how states can capitalize on federal investments to improve this alignment.

Rethinking the Federal-State Partnership for Free Community College: Early indicators from Oregon

This brief details aspects of the Oregon Promise Program including funding, program limitations, costs and opportunities associated with a more intentional state/federal partnership.

Rowing Together: Aligning state and federal investments in talent to common outcomes

Thirteen states have outcomes-based funding policies that work to align sought-after outcomes with state funding. This brief argues that it is desirable to align federal financial aid policies with metrics in state outcomes-based funding policies.

Fixing Affordability: An approach for advancing federalism in the modern era

There is a constant push and pull between state and federal governments to find the right balance of federalism. By applying this “push-pull” framework to higher education, this brief looks at past policy interventions and how this framework can help can help to provide insight into the free college movement.

Better Together? State and Federal Funding for Student Financial Aid

This brief focuses on three aspects of state financial aid: (1) how states use financial aid programs to make college more affordable; (2) how federalist solutions can assist state-only efforts to make college more affordable; and (3) how federal funds can help to level out state volatility in tighter economic times.

Enhancing State Authorization: The need for action by states as stewards of higher education performance

This brief examines the “triad” of state governments, the federal government and accrediting agencies and, by shining light on the unique role that state governments play in this partnership, the authors propose reforms that will strengthen the role of state governments, without neglecting the two other legs of the higher education stool.

Role Clarity: The interplay of entities funding higher education

This brief outlines the appropriate interplay between federal, state and institutional actions to ensure a coordinated higher education system, including four options for future action: (1) a stacked approach; (2) a centralized approach; (3) a sequential approach; and (4) a segmented approach.

Fast Track to College Success

This brief focuses on 12th-grade students who are ready for postsecondary work, but are spending unnecessary time in high school. The brief discusses options for paying for the transition, including K-12 funds reimbursing families for tuition or 12th-grade students being eligible for Pell.

Creating an Ideal State-Federal Data Partnership to Improve Policymaking Related to College Affordability

This brief explores how federal data policies are intertwined with states, and argues that a more effective partnership could equip states with information they can use to more precisely target policies on the barriers to postsecondary access and success.

50-State Comparisons and Databases (created or updated in 2016)

(Update) 50-State Comparison: Dual/Concurrent Enrollment Policies

This unique resource provides a national look at the number of states that have each of the 20 policies in place regarding dual enrollment basics, as well as the four key dual enrollment policy areas of access, finance, ensuring course quality and transferability.

(Update) 50-State Comparison: Transfer and Articulation Policies

This resource provides a national look at the number of states that have policies with one of the four metrics: transferable lower-division core, common course numbering, guaranteed transfer of an associate degree and reverse transfer.

50-State Comparison: Advanced Placement Policies

This comprehensive 50-State Comparison shows how all states approach fundamental elements such as financial and accountability incentives, collaboration between K-12 and higher education systems, funding for teacher training and several other important topics.

50-State Comparison: K-3 Quality

This 50-State Comparison: K-3 Quality explores key state-level policies that impact the quality of K-3 programs.

50-State Comparison: Statewide Longitudinal Data Systems

This 50-State Comparison provides a national comparison of how all 50 states plus the District of Columbia approach policies related to statewide longitudinal data systems.

(Update) 50-State Comparison: Civic Education Policies

This 50-State Comparison is an update to the 50-State Comparison: Civic Education Policies, released in 2013, and provides a statewide overview of social studies and civic education legislation, and identifies trends, distinctions and outliers.
