Your Question:

What is the breakdown of state versus local revenue for public education?

Our Response:

The distribution of funding from federal, state and local sources varies from state to state, according to the U.S. Department of Education, National Center for Education Statistics, Common Core of Data (CCD), "National Public Education Financial Survey (NPEFS)," fiscal year 2014. The following chart shows the breakdown (by both dollar amount and percentage) of state, local, and federal sources of revenue to fund education:
